MARZIE NEJAD

The Opened Closet

Throughout the gallery's 28 year history, its aesthetic has been to find, and exhibit work by outstanding self-taught artists. Continuing this tradition, we present Iranian born artist Marzie Nejad who draws on her heritage, dreams, and early morning reveries in her meticulously painted canvases.

A purple jungle, a powerful woodpecker, the agility of a pregnant woman, and the poignant journey of the beloved Iranian leader Mosaddegh are some of the experiences that are revealed through the artist's unselfconscious imagery. Sensitive and brilliant colors draw the viewer in to experience her interior life and its outward manifestation.

This is the first exhibition of Nejad's paintings. Concurrently the Hunterdon Art Museum in Clinton, NJ will also present her work.
